CONSENT ORDER

WHEREAS, Edward D. Jones & Co., L.P. (“Edward Jones”) CRD# 250, is a registered broker-dealer with a principal place of business at 12555 Manchester Road, St. Louis, Missouri, 63131-3710; and

WHEREAS, a coordinated investigation into Edward Jones’s supervision of financial advisors who serviced brokerage customers who hired the firm’s investment adviser to manage some or all of the customers’ securities investments during the period of approximately July 1, 2016 to June 30, 2018 (the “Investigation”) has been conducted by a multistate task force, coordinated among members of the North American Securities Administrators Association (“NASAA”), with Texas and Montana serving as the “Lead States”; and

WHEREAS, Edward Jones neither admits nor denies the Findings of Facts or Conclusions of Law set forth herein, except Edward Jones admits that, because it is a registered dealer in the State of Alabama, the Alabama Securities Commission (the “Commission”) has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to Title 8, Chapter 6, Code of Alabama 1975 (the “Act”); and

WHEREAS, Edward Jones elects to permanently waive any right to a hearing, judicial review, or appeal under Section 8-6-32 of the Act with respect to the entry of this Administrative Consent Order (the “Order”).

NOW, THEREFORE, the Director of the Alabama Securities Commission as administrator of the Act, hereby enters this Order:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Respondent is a financial services firm headquartered in St. Louis, Missouri, that serves over seven million investors across North America. The firm provides its services through its approximately 18,000 financial advisors (“FAs”). The firm’s focus is serving the needs of retail investors.
2. On October 23, 1981, Respondent registered with the Commission as a dealer. Respondent has also been registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) as an investment adviser since October 24, 1963 and has been notice filed with the Commission as an investment adviser since November 17, 2000.

Sales of Class A Mutual Fund Shares

3. Respondent’s general strategy with respect to its brokerage business has been to focus on helping the serious, long-term individual investor by providing investors with information and disclosures to aid in client choices. FAs often worked with customers to offer high-quality investments with the goal of achieving diversification and investing for the long term. Respondent stated in various training materials, workshops, and conferences that mutual funds are a product that aligned with this philosophy.
4. Mutual funds typically offer more than one class of shares, with each class carrying different sales charges (commonly referred to as “loads”), expense ratios, and minimum initial investment requirements. Retail brokerage customers are typically eligible to purchase Class A, B or C shares; these share classes have the lowest initial investment requirements. The most common share class sold by Respondent was the Class A share.

5. The price of a Class A share includes a sales charge in the form of a single “front-end load” when the shares are purchased. Front-end loads on Class A shares vary but can be up to five percent of the value of the initial investment. Class A shares, like other mutual fund share classes, also have ongoing annual expenses which affect a client's overall costs over the life of the investment.
6. Class A shares are generally suitable for investors with longer term investment horizons at the time of the purchase. As Respondent’s training materials highlighted, in a hypothetical scenario, if a customer’s retirement goal, investment objective, or time horizon for an investment is long term, the amortized costs of the sales load on a Class A mutual fund share may be lower than other mutual fund investment options in certain circumstances. For example, Class C shares typically charge no initial “load,” but have higher annual expense ratios than A shares, making the C shares more expensive over longer holding periods.
7. Certain FAs serviced customers that purchased Class A shares presuming that the customers would hold the shares for several years. In circumstances where that customer sold the Class A shares sooner than originally anticipated, the customer gave up the originally perceived benefit of having paid a larger front-end load (with lower corresponding annual expense ratios than other share classes).

The Launch of Guided Solutions

8. In or around 2013, Respondent conducted research directed to customers and FAs to explore introducing new types of products and services, including new investment advisory services. These investment advisory accounts differed from brokerage-only accounts in many respects, including, but not limited to, the following: the governing regulations, the applicable standard of care, the type of services provided and the benefits to clients, and the way that fees for the services provided are calculated.
9. Investment advisory fees are generally calculated based upon a percentage of the value of the assets managed pursuant to the investment advisory agreement between the client and the firm. The costs related to brokerage-only accounts are typically commissions based on each discrete securities transaction executed on behalf of the customer (i.e., a per trade commission).
10. In April 2016, the United States Department of Labor adopted its fiduciary rule (the “DOL Rule”).¹ The DOL Rule provided that investment advice to retirement accounts would be subject to a fiduciary standard of care.²

Offering of Guided Solutions

11. In addition to existing brokerage-only account options, Respondent ultimately offered clients several investment advisory account options, including one known as Guided Solutions.
12. The Guided Solutions investment advisory account was a non-discretionary account,

¹ The fiduciary rule was first proposed by the DOL in October 2010 and then re-proposed in April 2015.

² The fiduciary standard for SEC-registered investment advisers is derived from the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and rules promulgated thereunder by SEC. The governing standard of care for recommendations made to retail brokerage customers became the “Best Interest” standard, rather than the suitability standard, pursuant to the Regulation Best Interest compliance date in 2020.

requiring the investment adviser or its representative (a.k.a., FAs) to obtain approval from the advisory client prior to executing securities transactions in the account. As an investment advisory account, Guided Solutions offered certain ongoing management services, for which Respondent assessed an investment advisory fee. These services included ongoing account monitoring and rebalancing services as well as allocation guardrails.

13. Beginning in 2016, Respondent communicated to its FAs how the requirements of the DOL Rule would impact different types of retirement accounts. This included placing the status of “grandfathered” on brokerage retirement accounts – a status that would impose limitations on investment activities within the brokerage account.³ Importantly, these included strict limitations on trading, meaning a customer could not continue to build on their investment portfolio within a brokerage-only account.
14. Respondent sent each affected brokerage account holder a “Grandfathering Notice” that identified transactions that could and could not occur in a retirement brokerage account after the effective date of the DOL Rule of June 7, 2016.
15. Respondent did encourage its FAs to meet with the customers that they serviced to discuss those customers’ options. FAs provided these customers with written information about the various account options as set out in a document entitled “Making Good Choices” that was created by Respondent. The Guided Solutions program, which included advisory services subject to a fiduciary standard of care, was one of the options outlined in the brochure from which customers could choose.⁴ After meeting with the FA that was responsible for their account and reviewing their account options, certain customers chose to invest through a Guided Solutions or other investment advisory account rather than a brokerage-only account. Those new investment advisory clients were provided certain required disclosure forms and they each executed written agreements containing the terms of the investment advisory program, including the fees and costs that he or she would be charged for the advisory services provided. The firm also did disclose in its Form ADV brochure that customers “can purchase many of the same or similar investments as those available in an advisory program for a lower fee through Edward Jones as a broker-dealer, although [they] will not receive the additional advisory services.”

Class A Share Sales Loads and Corresponding Fee Offset

16. Certain FAs serviced customers who held Class A mutual fund shares in their brokerage accounts and then became Guided Solutions investment advisory clients. And certain of those customers had purchased Class A mutual fund shares in their brokerage account during the two or three years preceding the opening of the Guided Solutions account and at that time had paid a front-end sales load of up to five percent. When these customers chose to open their Guided Solutions accounts they began a new and different relationship with Respondent as investment advisory clients and were therefore subject to the aforementioned ongoing advisory fees upon account opening.

17. Respondent addressed this scenario in several ways, including encouraging FAs to communicate with clients about these new and different relationships and making disclosures regarding investment advisory services and fees in its Form ADV brochure and in the investment advisory account opening documents it provided to clients. Respondent also supervised certain transactions in brokerage accounts in connection with the opening of Guided Solutions accounts, and continuously enhanced its procedures beginning in the relevant period, including with respect to how assets under care were invested in Guided Solutions accounts.

18. Throughout the relevant period, Respondent also provided a prorated offset of investment advisory fees to clients who, during the two years before becoming an advisory client, paid sales loads for the Class A shares. However, given the front-end load of up to five percent for the Class A shares, and the annual investment advisory fee between 0.5 to 1.35 percent, a two-year fee offset did not fully offset the front-end load paid on the Class A shares previously purchased by certain customers.
19. Certain of these customers had expected to pay no additional out of pocket expenses relative to their investments in such Class A shares at the time of the Class A share purchase. These customers ended up opening a Guided Solutions account and paying an ongoing fee for the investment advisory services provided relative to those assets.
20. In these cases, Respondent retained the front-end load previously assessed on the initial purchase of Class A mutual fund shares where that front-end load was not fully offset against the annual investment advisory fees for investment advisory services as described above.
21. Between 2016 and 2018 (the “relevant time period”), the States estimate that certain FAs serviced brokerage customers who became Guided Solutions advisory clients and collectively paid more than ten million dollars in front-end loads for Class A shares in brokerage accounts across the United States and its territories that was retained by Respondent and not applied as an offset to investment advisory fees.

Mitigating Facts

22. In foregoing restitution to Respondent's customers, the States considered the positive performance of the investment advisory accounts (as compared to the brokerage accounts), the low per-customer restitution amount across the affected accounts, the variability in facts and circumstances for each customer, and the prolonged time-frame since the date of this activity.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. The Commission has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to the Act.
2. Section 8-6-3(j)(10) of the Act and Commission Rule 830-X-3-.13, require that Respondent establish and maintain a system to supervise the activities of its broker-dealer agents that is reasonably designed to achieve compliance with the Act, Commission Rules, and all applicable securities laws and regulations, including the establishment and maintenance of written procedures.
3. During the relevant time period, Respondent did not have reasonably designed procedures with respect to its activities as a broker-dealer that would have detected the conduct described herein relating to the holding period of Class A share mutual funds.
4. Respondent's failure during the relevant time period to establish and maintain reasonably designed procedures relating to the foregoing constitutes a violation of Commission Rule 830-X-3-.13.
5. Pursuant to Sections 8-6-19(j) and (k) of the Act, the violation of the Commission's Rules described above constitutes a basis for the assessment of an administrative fine against Respondent and reimbursement of the administrative and investigative costs of the Commission.

6. The following relief is appropriate and in the public interest.
